yours for life

ORIENTATION

When you gain your accreditation with AHCL you will be offered a personal orientation tour with a member of the medical administration team. This may include the chance to meet key personnel and facilities, visit security to have your hospital identification badge issued and receive car parking instructions. In addition, you may choose to have a member of the information services team explain the hospital systems to you.

Personalised Hospital Tour

When you gain your accreditation at one of our sites, you will be offered a personalised orientation tour of the facility where you will be basing your practice.

If you do not hear from your nominated hospital representative upon accreditation to organise your tour, please contact the appropriate person identified below. The orientation tour is tailored to suit your particular interests; however, it will generally include an explanation of how to access the hospital system for patient results both on-site and remotely as well visiting the AMO Lounge, organising your identification badge, security access and parking.

Identification Badge

Part of your orientation tour will include a visit to the Security office where your photo will be taken and you will be issued with your hospital Identification Badge. All accredited doctors and visiting doctors must wear an identification badge supplied by security and endorsed by Medical Services. This pass needs to be worn at all times so you can gain access to the appropriate areas of the hospital and be easily identified by all staffs.

Car Parking

Where to park will be explained during your orientation. It varies at each of the facilities and it is suggested that you confirm the parking arrangement during your orientation tour.

Doctors at SAH have free designated parking on Level 1 of the multi-deck car park. Free access in and out of the car park is provided by scanning your Identification badge on a reader panel at the entry and exit point.
